Opioid Prescription Agreement

Opioid and Controlled Substance Agreement and Informed Consent

Opioid medications are used judiciously in the treatment of benign or malignant pain conditions. The following is an agreement and explanation of issues related to treatment of painful disorders using opioid medications and/or controlled substances. These medications include but are not limited to morphine (e.g. MS Contin, kadian, MS IR), oxycodone (e.g. percocet, oxycontin, roxicodone), hydromorphone (dilaudid), hydrocodone (e.g. vicodin, lortab, norco), fentanyl, nucynta, codeine, benzodiazepines (e.g. valium, xanax, klonopin), stimulants (e.g. adderall, ritalin), barbiturates (e.g. fioricet, fiorinal), etc.

Side Effects and Risks

Because these medications are potentially dangerous, as are all medications, the side effects and risks are discussed with you at the beginning of the treatment and periodically thereafter. Side effects/risks include, but are not limited to, allergic reactions, sedation, somnolence, respiratory depression (i.e. slow or stop breathing), dizziness, confusion, nausea, vomiting, urinary retention, suppression of menstrual cycle, hormonal imbalance, constipation, itching, physical dependence, physical dependence to unborn child, tolerance, addiction or death.

Warnings

Opioid medications may cause drowsiness. Alcoholic beverages should be avoided or be used with extreme caution and sparingly after approval of pain physician while taking these medications. Driving a car or operating dangerous machinery may not be allowed initially until a stable dose of these medications is established. Usually, most side effects of opioid use disappear over time. With continued use, one could expect for constipation. Bowel maintenance should be addressed seriously and treated if necessary. If decision is made to terminate opioid therapy, a weaning schedule rather than abrupt discontinuation of treatment should be exercised to prevent withdrawal symptoms (e.g. increased pain, agitation, nausea, diarrhea, etc.)

The following conditions must be followed and agreed upon as long as the patient is receiving treatment at Premier Pain Consultants. Noncompliance with any one of these conditions may result in discharge from the practice.
